

SUNSET TIME AT THE GROVE | 1st June to September 2010 – after 5pm
Make the most of the long summer evenings with an after-work escape at a very summery price

June 2010: It's 5pm on a beautiful summer evening and there's plenty of time left to enjoy a few laid-back lengths in a glamorous outdoor pool before drifting away on a lounger on a perfect sandy beach.

Some serious 'me-time' is on the agenda too, in a crystal steam room, as a prelude to a deliciously relaxing treatment in an award-winning spa - or a leisurely round of golf with friends on a superb championship course.

Finally, as the afternoon drifts into evening, it's time to catch the sunset over a glass of wine before making the most of the long summer evening, with dinner on a beautiful terrace overlooking parkland and peaceful gardens.

All this, just 20 minutes from central London - for just £95 per person.

This is SUNSET TIME AT THE GROVE (www.thegrove.co.uk) – a brilliantly simple after-work summer escape from the stress and daily grind of the City, to The Grove in Hertfordshire, a country estate with a cosmopolitan twist that brings together all the peace of the countryside and all the style and fun of the city – just 18 miles from central London. With 300 acres of gardens and woodland walks, a championship golf course, fabulous swimming pools, a to-die-for spa, welcoming staff, a magical walled garden and superb food and wine, The Grove ticks all the boxes for an easy summer evening escape.
